

Royal Navy content system aims to get recruits shipshape

Royal Navy training academy HMS Collingwood has rolled out a content management system to help train recruits in the systems on board the new T45 Destroyer (pictured) now in production. The academy is using the Outstart Evolution system to train would-be crew members in all aspects of working on the destroyer, with recruits receiving their training via the Defence Learning Portal through a blend of instructor-led training and computer-based emulations and tasks.

→ www.outstart.com

